Elder Law Firm Sponsors Workshop for Professionals Serving the Elderly

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Hendersonville/Cookeville, TN—February 28, 2007: The Elder Law Practice of Timothy L. Takacs is now accepting registrations for the Time Out Workshop, a continuing education program for professionals who serve the elderly and disabled. The workshop runs from 8:15 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. on Thursday, April 19, 2007 at Leslie Town Centre in Cookeville. A $30 registration fee includes breakfast, lunch, participant workbook, refreshments and a certificate of attendance.

Now in its seventh year, the semi-annual Time Out Workshop draws more than 200 social workers, case managers, nurses, discharge planners, nursing home administrators and other geriatric care professionals from throughout Middle Tennessee who participate in workshops, view vendor exhibits and network in a fun and relaxing environment.

“This year marks the first time the workshop is being held in Cookeville,” said Bonnie Woodard, the event’s organizer at the Elder Law Practice of Timothy L. Takacs, whose Cookeville office serves families in the Upper Cumberland region. “Everyone who has attended our previous workshops at Willis Conference Center in Nashville is invited to register for the Cookeville workshop.”

Though the Time Out Workshop helps Social Workers and others in the geriatric field fulfill continuing education requirements, it is designed to do more than offer affordable CEUs. “It is literally a ‘time out’ for professionals who serve the elderly and disabled,” Woodard said. “Most work long hours helping families deal with very stressful situations. This workshop gives them time to enjoy a day of continuing education with peers and colleagues where they can refresh and recharge. It’s the Elder Law Practice’s way of ‘giving back’ to the long-term care community.”

For more than a decade, the Elder Law Practice of Timothy L. Takacs has been helping clients and their families respond to the legal, financial, physical and psychological challenges presented by long life, illness and disability. The Elder Law Practice of Timothy L. Takacs serves clients from offices in Hendersonville and Cookeville, Tennessee.
